

Gleaners Food Program Opportunities for Nonprofits

Gleaners' Mission is to provide households with access to sufficient, nutritious food and related resources.. Gleaners collects, purchases and distributes food and other related consumer products received by Gleaners, to member agencies to be served or distributed to individuals who are needy, ill or children.

Nonprofit organizations seeking food program opportunities with Gleaners can pursue the options below, which include membership as a Gleaners Agency and the Mobile Pantry Program.

Gleaners Member Agency

More than 300 soup kitchens, food pantries, shelters, disaster relief agencies and other nonprofit organizations rely on food from Gleaners to meet their clients' needs. Our partner agencies can count on Gleaners as a reliable source of a range of food products, including dry food like pasta and cereal, canned foods, frozen meat, fresh produce, fresh milk - even household products like paper towels, cleaning supplies and body care products.

Gleaners distributes more than two-thirds of the food to our partner agencies at no charge. For some food, our partner agencies contribute a shared maintenance fee of .18 cents per pound, which helps cover the costs of handling. Gleaners also works with our partners to ensure they meet health standards for storing and handling the food received, and to help them learn and apply appropriate, cost-effective methods for safe food service handling and distribution.

Gleaners Mobile Pantry Program

Gleaners Community Food Bank and its partner agencies are providing food to neighborhoods by the truckload allowing our partners to target areas of greatest need.

The mobile pantry is a traveling food pantry that delivers food directly to agencies to hold a one-day, large-scale food distribution for people in need. Each mobile pantry is coordinated with a local community organization, such as a place of worship, a senior center, or a help center. Gleaners delivers the food to the partner agency, and their volunteers work to set it up like a farmers market. People in need may pre-register to attend or just show up and each person/family receives a parcel of food, typically including perishable, nonperishable food items, and fresh produce.
